

The Questionnaire

You are on vacation or day trip and have a few hours open. What is the first kind of shop you are likely to wander through?

If you are killing time online, where do you find yourself losing hours at a time that may generate present ideas?

It is the end of a long week, and you want to treat yourself to dinner / brunch / something out. What kind of food are you looking for?

Do you have favorite ways to spend time at home this year for which a gift could be useful? (Reading, crafting, listening to music, cooking, playing video games)

Are there any things you look for to bring warmth and comfort to the dark and cold days of winter? (Special teas, cocoas, snacks, blankets, candles, etc.)

Anything in particular you keep thinking you need in your room / house / life that is more exciting and giftable than an appliance?

Is there a local small business / coffee shop / restaurant that you are particularly taken with?

What is your favorite type of museum? Any you wish you had a membership to?

Is there anything “everyday” that can be gifted that your life just needs in order to brighten your season? (Grocery gift cards, acts of service, or prepped freezer meals?)

Are there any specific holiday traditions you are looking forward to more than others this year?

Is there a holiday baked good you hope to enjoy this year?

Courtesy of LM reader Tracy Selvig